

$5,000 GOES TO BARGE CAPTAIN.

John Meehan, of the Ella Jane,
a Poor Man, Gets Reward for Finding Body of Adolphe Openhym.

MONEY TO BE PAID AT ONCE.

Morris J. Hirsch, Attorney for the Estate of the Silk Merchant Who Leaped from High Bridge, Only Awaits Certain Formalities.

Morris J. Hirsch, attorney for the estate of Adolphe Openhym, said to-day that the reward of $5,000 would be paid to Capt. John Meehan, of the barge Ella Jane, who discovered the body of the silk merchant.

"Did the letters found on Mr. Openhym's body disclose any reason for his committing suicide?" the attorney was asked.

"They were not really letters, but private papers of no moment and not bearing at all upon their owner's end. The reward will be paid to Capt. Meehan as soon as certain formalities have been complied with."

Mr. Hirsch was reticent about the case. He declined to say what he meant by "formalities" with reference to the payment of the reward.

Mr. Openhym leaped from High Bridge into the Harlem River on March 30, and, although hundreds of boatmen have searched for the body, it did not come to the surface until yesterday morning. Capt. Meehan is employed on the scow Ella Jane by the Health Department. He sleeps on board with his two sons, rising early yesterday morning, he walked around his craft, looking over the side into the water. Near the stern he noticed a dark object bumping against the boat and soon saw that it was the body of a man.

Identified by Letters.

He called his sons, and when they rolled the body over they were convinced that it was that of the missing merchant, Eulmann Francis, of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station, was called and searching the body, he made the identification positive. In the pockets were letters and personal cards and a watch on which were engraved the initials of the owner. There was also $20 in bills in the pockets.

Representatives of the family went to the police station to which the body was removed and Morris J. Hirsch, the personal representative of the firm, returned from Atlantic City last night and took charge of the arrangements for the funeral. The body will not be buried until after a formal inquest, although it is likely that no new light will be thrown upon the strange suicide.

Leaped from High Bridge.

Adolphe Openhym left his beautiful home at No. 332 Riverside Drive. That morning he was with his family as usual, and, according to their statements, he was apparently in his usual happy frame of mind. A few hours later a man answering his description was seen to leap from High Bridge.

Mr. Openhym's hat and umbrella were found on the bridge, yet his family refused to believe he had taken his life. A reward of $1,000 was offered for the recovery of his body, and, as the days and weeks passed, this amount was raised to $5,000.

In the hope of gaining this reward, hundreds of divers and boatmen searched every foot of the river bed for a long way either way from the bridge. Dynamite was exploded and cannons fired until old river men declared that no body could remain at the bottom. How nearly some of these searchers came to the body is shown by the fact that a grappling-hook caught in the trousers and tore its way free without raising the body.

Capt. Meehan can't decide what he will do with the reward, which Mr. Hirsch says will be paid to him at once. The old seaman has been all over the world. It is more than seventy years old, and for sixty years he has followed the sea.

Reward Falls in Good Hands.

"This is about the first good luck I ever had," he said to-day. "I have been all over the sea I can, I guess, so I'll get me a little shack some place along the river and settle down to enjoy the rest of my days on earth. That much money is a fortune to an old man like me, who has never had anything. It means that I can work when I feel like it and smoke my pipe when I feel inclined."

"I can cook as good as any man, and in some little place where I can be near the sea or river I'll be happy. I'll have a boat and some fish-nets and turn a few dollars that way when I want to."

PRISONER TRIED TO SHOOT ROUNDSMAN.

Drew a Pistol in Police Station and Only Prompt Action Saved Intended Victim's Life.

Cornelius Burns, of No. 114 Roosevelt street, a saloon-keeper, with a reputation as a "bad man," drew a pistol to-day in an endeavor to shoot Roundsmen Mulhall of the Eldridge street police, at the very moment that Mulhall was arranging him before the desk sergeant. Only the prompt intervention of several policemen saved Mulhall.

Burns was before Magistrate Cornell, Mulhall appearing against him. Although repentant, the saloon-keeper was fined on two charges. Burns accused Mulhall as he was walking through Roosevelt street yesterday, beginning by calling him names. Mulhall stood before him for a few minutes and then arrested the man. At the station, while the desk sergeant was taking his pedigree, Burns turned on Mulhall and said: "I'll kill you yet, yes, in fifteen days." Mulhall had hardly time to say, "On, out that out," when Burns cried out: "I'll begin now," and drew his pistol. He had it leveled at Mulhall when another policeman struck up the saloon-keeper's arm.

LADY BOUNTIFUL BRIDE OF MR. WILLIAM HARRISON.

Model for Gene Carr's Famous Sketches Weds
a Young Broadway Business Man.

LADY BOUNTIFUL AS GENE CARR MADE HER, WITH HIS SISTER AS THE MODEL.

A VERY pretty wedding took place at St. Augustine's Church, One Hundred and Sixty-fifth street, Bronx, to-day. Rev. James McGuire performed the ceremony. The contracting parties were Miss Irene D. Carr and William Harrison, a prominent young Broadway business man.

The ceremony was of more than passing interest, both from the beauty and social standing of the bride and the fact that by it the original of the "Lady Bountiful" sketches was made a matron.

As Irene Carr Mrs. Harrison was the model from which her famous brother, Gene Carr, drew his piquant and stylish "Lady Bountiful." Owing to the fidelity to the beauty and grace of the model with which Mr. Carr drew his patroness of his merry street urchins, Miss Carr had more than a local celebrity, and oftentimes, to her great embarrassment, she heard staring strangers remark how much she "looked like Lady Bountiful."

After the ceremony, at which Gene Carr acted as best man, there was a reception at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 1239 Tinton avenue, Bronx.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison left for a trip to Atlantic City and the South.

AMBULANCE WAS UPSET, MAN DIED

Hurrying on Urgent Call, but Careless Motorman Caused Accident and Patient Was Dead When Surgeon Arrived.

If it hadn't been for a reckless motorman of a Thirty-fourth street cross-town car to-day the life of Henry Pain, of No. 633 First avenue, might have been saved.

Pain was taken violently ill, and after trying to revive him a policeman called for an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. It was an emergency call, and the driver who despatched it was the house down First avenue. A human life was at stake.

At Thirty-fourth street an electric car came bowling along at full speed, the motorman un mindful of the clanging of the ambulance bell and the shouts of pedestrians.

The ambulance driver, John Russell, thought the motorman would give him the right of way.

The ambulance dashed on until it seemed as though only a miracle could avoid a collision.

With all his might the driver hauled on the reins and managed to turn the horse to one side. The turn was so short that the ambulance was upset. The driver and surgeon, Dr. E. P. Warren, were thrown out and bruised.

Dr. Warren, un mindful of his injuries, ran to Pain's home, but the cause of death was apoplexy. Although the coroner was notified early, his body was left lying on the bedroom floor for hours.

STABBED 6 TIMES IN STREET FIGHT.

Italian with a Big Stiletto and Three Razors Carves Up His Adversary.

Patrolman Andrews, of the West One Hundred and Fifty-second street station, arraigned before Magistrate Flamm, in the Harlem court to-day Camello Turle, a One Hundred and Seventy-fifth street and Broadway.

During an altercation early last evening, Turle was stabbed six times, in the breast, arms and legs. It was charged by him that Turle did the stabbing. When Turle was arrested a stiletto and three razors were found on him. He was held without bail for examination on Wednesday.

Pongees.

The pulse for Pongees is strong—stronger in Paris, London and New York than anywhere else. Hundreds of women have Pongees in mind—planning a dress, a coat, or a hat that's to be made of the popular fabric.

We have Shantung—the imported Pongees—direct from Tokio. They are very serviceable and launder as safely as cotton sheeting.

The colors of Pongee vary: The "natural" is a mellow ecru; the "cloth of gold" has a yellowish tinge; the "che-fu" is a tawny tan, and the "jasper" is grayish. And we have white, also.

The Lyon's-dyed Pongees, solid colors or printed polka-dots in bright tints are beautiful.

Embroidered Pongees are among the ultra novelties—here in profusion.

These Hats Are Just from Paris.

Among them: A quaint creation designed by Camille Roger. He calls it "The Cake-Walk" Hat. Parisiennes are wearing them. And this one, from Lewis, is distinguished by the large capeline. The crown is covered with deep pink roses and at one side an ostrich feather droops gracefully. The color is new—violet.

Lewis is represented by another odd beauty—a small plateau-shape trimmed with a degrade of mousseline.

The charming conceit with cherries attached to ribbons is from Esther Meyer. And Germaine and Fleury have sent two masterpieces. One is light blue, trimmed with a traine of straw roses and ostrich feathers; the other is enriched with a lustrous cascade of velvet ribbon.

You will enjoy looking at all of them. They are to be sold at about half what we paid. We secured them for ideas.

$2.50 Tuscan Straw Hats at $1.59.

We just received another lot of those imported Tuscan Lace Straw Hats—natural color. There are ten pretty shapes—dainty, airy—ideal for Summer. Made to sell at $2.50; choice at $1.59.—1st Fl.

Real Maltese Lace

This is our own recent importation of Maltese Lace Collars, Scarfs and Collar-and-Cuff Sets.

Hand-woven by the women-folk of Malta—exquisite designs wrought of crisp, creamy Italian silk. The display is well worth seeing—as triumphs of art as well as of economy.

Brides-elect should be especially interested. Maltese Laces make rich additions to any trousseau, and are beautiful enough, and serviceable enough to be treasured as heirlooms.

Scarfs—$1.19 up to $20.96
Collars—$4.19 up to $25.14
Collar-and-Cuff Sets—$6.49 to $10.69.

Probably the largest display of Real Maltese Lace in New York.

Sewing Machines.—34 Fl.

The great genius whose brain bequeathed the Sewing Machine to a hard-worked world, may just as well not have invented at all, so far as thousands of weary sewers who drugged with needles would have been concerned, if the cost of owning one had remained at the original exorbitant pitch. Next to the creator of Sewing Machines, the power that gives them large and easy distribution, by bringing prices down to a reasonable commercial basis, deserves the highest gratitude of the public.

Our record is well known. Here's how we sustain it.

Macy's New Store.

The new store—the largest building in the world devoted to retailing—has been open less than six months, and we are now just beginning to show the public the varied benefits and beauties of such a vast enterprise. The mental and material machinery of so great an organization, like all the works of man, can't be entirely free from flaws and friction. But we never cease in our endeavors to reduce them to a minimum.

Complaints come, of course—for the most part they are good-natured and justifiable. We are always glad to have you state every grievance—no matter how trivial or serious it may be. It is through kindly and intelligent criticism that we acquire much valuable information in respect to our deficiencies. Find fault whenever you can; be particular and insistent in your demands upon the service.

Noblesse oblige. Your expectations are our inspirations. You very properly assume that Macy's should be as close to perfection as human efforts can make it. It is one of the obligations that our position imposes—and we have no desire to shirk it.

Working up to it creates improvement. That's the all-the-time try. Come as often as you can—come to buy—come merely to see and never fail to let us know if anything is not right, or if anybody lacks in courtesy. Your frank reports will be received with genuine thanks. We do not give discounts or commissions. We do not have charge accounts, but our Depositors' Account Department pays 4 per cent. interest and enables you to avoid the inconvenience of having goods sent C. O. D.

Depositors' Account Department Allows 4 Per Cent. Interest.

The Depositors' Account Department is a feature inaugurated on the opening of our new store to facilitate purchases made by customers who do not care to have goods sent C. O. D. By placing money to your credit with this Department your purchases can be referred to it for payment. Interest will be allowed on balance at the rate of four per cent. per annum, to be computed every three months, with the distinct understanding that the account is only for the payment of purchases in the house, and not for general banking purposes.

Further information will be willingly furnished you on application. Balcony, 34th St., Rear Elevator.

New White Goods.—First Floor, Rear.

At most stores you'll be told that these plain and Mercerized White Goods are "very scarce"—"hard to get"—"hardly any of them on the market."

That's the excuse for lack of foresight on the part of merchants when the millmen were anxious for orders to fill in their dull period.

We predicted a "White" season, and over in England—to be exact—Manchester—we had the manufacturers busy months ago to meet the big demand for these beautiful White Fabrics that we were sure would come at this time.

Dealers who buy now must pay more than we did. That's one of the reasons why we can and do undersell them.

White Madras, wide and narrow stripes, small figures and dainty open-work effects, 27 inches wide, 16c.

White Madras, striped with mercerized lines or sprinkled with small mercerized figures, 27 inches wide, 18c.
